

Moral Dilemmas

Money and Things

1. You find a wallet on the sidewalk with $500 in cash and the owner's ID inside. What do you do?
2. Would you try to find the owner yourself, hand the wallet to the police, or leave it where you found it?
3. You break an expensive vase at a friend's home. Do you tell them it was you?
4. The cashier gives you 100 yuan too much in change. Do you give it back?
5. What if it is only 5 yuan? Does the amount change your answer?

Telling the Truth to Friends

1. Your best friend asks you to lie about where they were on Friday night. Do you do it?
2. Their partner asks you straight out if you were together on Friday. What do you say?
3. Your friend asks what you think of their new haircut, and it looks terrible. What do you tell them?
4. You take one bite of a dish you cannot stand at a dinner party, and the host asks how it is. What do you say?
5. You find out your friend's child is not biologically theirs. Do you tell them?

Love, Friends and Boundaries

1. Your friend's ex asks you out on a date. Do you say yes?
2. Would you talk to your friend about it first, or is it none of their business now?
3. Your crush asks you to pretend to be their partner at a family dinner. Do you agree?
4. Two of your friends are dating. One is planning to propose, and the other tells you they want to break up. What do you do?
5. You know your younger brother plans to drop out of college. Do you tell your parents?

Right and Wrong in Public

1. You see a stranger slip expensive jewelry into their bag in a store. What do you do?
2. Do you report it, say something to them directly, or walk away?
3. Two people behind you keep talking loudly in the movie theater. What do you say to them?
4. Your neighbor's music is still blasting at 2 a.m. on a work night. What do you do?
5. You are already late for an important meeting and see a stranger with a flat tire on the road. Do you stop?

Work and Big Decisions

1. A colleague keeps asking you to help with their work, and you already have too much of your own. How do you say no?
2. Do you tell them the truth, or say yes and do the work slowly?
3. You overhear your coworkers planning a surprise party for you. Do you act surprised for them?
4. You are offered your dream job in another city, but your partner does not want to move. Do you take it?
5. Would you try long distance, or would you end the relationship over it?

Small Awkward Moments

1. You notice food stuck in your date's teeth on a first date. Do you tell them?
2. How would you say it without making them feel bad?
3. Two close friends are getting married on the same day. How do you choose which wedding to go to?
4. What decides it for you: the time of each wedding, or who invited you first?
